Queer Cure For Toothache.

In Staffordshire and Shropshire, England, they have a most extraordinary cure for toothache. The sufferer watches a mole's runway with spade and traps and as soon as he succeeds in capturing one of these reputed eyeless little animals cuts off its paw and quickly applies it to the aching molar. In order to make the cure sure and effective the paw must be amputated while the mole is yet alive. Furthermore, if the aching tooth is on the right side of the jaw, a left hand mole paw must be used, and vice versa. A similar toothache superstition exists in the Cape Verde islands and also on the Canaries.

The Way Spaniards Smoke.

The Spaniards are the most expert smokers in the world. A native takes a heavy pull at his cigarette, inhales the smoke, takes up a wine skin or bottle, pours half a pint down his throat, holding the vessel a foot from his mouth, without spilling a drop, and then with a sigh of satisfaction closes his eyes and exhales the smoke from his nose and mouth in clouds. He will also inhale the smoke, converse for a few minutes in a natural manner, and then blow out the smoke.

Remarkable Cure.

AMUSEMENTS

SCENE IN ACT II IN "THE CLANSMAN."

The Clansman.

"The Clansman" has been the most phenomenal success that has ever visited the south.

Moreover it is a play which presents important questions in such a forcible manner that it naturally evokes much comment. The audiences which have witnessed the play have uniformly approved of it and is an element among the southern newspapers, however, which has been disposed to be critical, and the general tenor of their criticism has been, such a play is not needed, and that it "arouses prejudices and passions, which might better be allowed to sleep." This is but the surface view, however; the underlying sentiment of these papers seems to be adverse to any presentation of the past history of the south.

The play has been the sensation of the season, and those who will see it to-night will undoubtedly discuss it for days to come. There will be a matinee to-morrow afternoon, and also another performance to-morrow night.

Last Night's Play.

Billy Kersands' Minstrels yesterday afternoon and last night performed before very large audiences. Nearly every colored person in the city attended one of the performances, and some of them attended both. A very large number of white people also went out to see Billy Kersands' Minstrels, and everyone was well pleased with the entertainment. It is perhaps the best colored minstrel company that this city has ever had, as it is made up of a lot of talented colored actors.

The features of the entertainment were Billy Nichols' various imitations and monologues and also the magic of Alonzo Moore, who styles himself as the "Black Herman."

As for Kersands himself, there is nothing to him. His very large mouth and facial expressions, however, always please the gallery boys.

THOMAS DIXON, JR. Author of "The Clansman," and who will be seen in Pensacola Tonight with His Company.

have displayed such enthusiasm as has never before been seen in a theatrical production. The old-fashioned newspapers have praised it in the highest terms. There
